

Coma policeman dies

Paul Briggs, 43, a Merseyside police officer who had been in a coma since being knocked off his motorcycle in July 2015, has died at a hospice. His wife Lindsey, 40, who fought a lengthy court battle to have the treatment that was keeping him alive withdrawn, said that she was "devastated" by his death but relieved that his suffering had ended at last.

Times 23.1.17